When: Friday and Saturday, July 21 & 22, 2017

8:30-5:00 Friday; 9:00-4:00 Saturday

This hands-on seminar demonstrates how we use spelling as the foundation for teaching writing and reading. All grades pre-K to 12 benefit. In this two-day seminar you will receive an overview of the program, its methodologies, and historical background. For the greater part of the course the instructor will teach you as if you were the child learning from scratch. This experience with you being the student will help you better understand SWR and give you confidence to teach the program to your students. Learn how to teach English in a logical, consistent way regardless of the student's ability level.

Trainer: Elaine Selby is a SWR trainer endorsed by the program's author, Wanda Sanseri. She has a Master's degree in Education and has many years of teaching experience with adults and children.

Cost: $135 for the full two days; $25 will reserve your spot (you may pay the balance at the seminar)
